

Mediacom Communications to Offer Hulu Streaming Service

May 5, 2015

MEDIACOM PARK, N.Y.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Mediacom Communications and Hulu announced today that the companies have reached an agreement that will allow Mediacom to offer Hulu's subscription streaming service its customers.

"We believe Hulu is the perfect complement to Mediacom's Internet service offerings," said Mediacom's Executive Vice President of Operations, John Pascarelli. "Hulu brings a robust video selection to our customers who want to supplement their traditional cable service with online content at home or on the go."

"At Hulu, we believe users should have the ability to consume their favorite content, when, where and how they want," said Hulu's Senior Vice President of Distribution, Tim Connolly. "Even with the rapid growth in streaming video, there is a huge audience that consumes television through the innovative services provided by cable providers, like Mediacom, and we want to be there for them too."

Hulu is a premium streaming television destination that offers full libraries of hit series such as Empire, South Park, CSI, Nashville and current season programming from five of the six top broadcast networks. For a monthly fee, Hulu subscribers have the ability to stream a broad library of content from numerous programming networks including ABC, Adult Swim, Cartoon Network, Comedy Central, FOX, FX, MTV, NBC, Nickelodeon and TNT. Hulu also offers the most comprehensive collection of classic films from The Criterion Collection, as well as its own library of Hulu Originals.

Mediacom plans to provide pricing and other particulars for Hulu, including its availability date, in the near future.
